We Believe...

that everyone who battles cancer deserves a

FIGHTING CHANCE

Office of the Chairman

To Friends of Fighting Chance . . . Old and New:

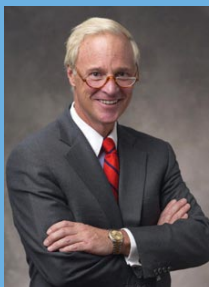

Each year approximately 1,000 residents of the East End of Long Island are stricken with cancer and 40% of them call Fighting Chance -- seeking our unique combination of crisis counseling and assistance in navigating the healthcare system, all of it provided free-of-charge from our Sag Harbor store-front offices.

These patients display a grace under pressure that is remarkable, and so we dedicate the 2008 Annual Report to all the patients we have served since our beginnings in 2002.

Some of their stories about their cancer journeys on the East End are excerpted in the pages that follow. And please remember, there are new patients with new stories coming through our doors every day. Please help us help them . . . and become a true friend of Fighting Chance

Sincerely,

Duncan N. Darrow
Chairman of the Board

Our Patients & Their Voices . . .

“After diagnosis . . . I was just out there . . . hardly any idea where to turn or who to talk to. Just nothing. You could say I was “at sea” and Fighting Chance came along and was my lifeboat.

After I got cancer people would say, ‘I’m so sorry, I know how you feel,’ but they didn’t know how I felt. It was so great talking to people in the Fighting Chance support groups who did have cancer because they really did know what I mean.”

“Hearing I had cancer felt like a ton of bricks . . . the disease is like your worst flu combined with your worst hangover.

If you have cancer you don’t want to get out of bed because you know something bad is going to happen. But Fighting Chance is out of bed, making calls and describing options to you . . . by going there I felt better and I recovered better and felt part of a cancer community.”

“After I was told I had cancer I went back to my car and cried. It was like being kicked in the stomach.

If you’re diagnosed, get a hold of Fighting Chance. They’re someone with experience, and it’s an incredible place. Don’t do it alone. I can’t stress that enough . . . doing it alone will kill you.”

“Fighting Chance gave us so many things. They went to the hospital, told me about massage, hypnosis, worked with me on stress relief, arranged accupuncture, which I still do for my neuropathy . . . the list goes on.”

4

“When you have an organization like Fighting Chance, if I was thinking about stopping my treatment or just having a bad day, I could pick up the phone and call Karrie or Heather . . . or I could go to the office and talk to them one-on-one.”

5

“They didn’t say it was pancreatic cancer, they just said ‘have this taken care of quickly.’ There was a sense of bewilderment . . . am I going to die?”

Fighting Chance has been a terrific part of my journey. Karrie Robinson (the oncology Social Worker) was like the rudder of a ship. She really helped me navigate the river.”

6

“Doctors are not trained in one of the arts of healing, which is you kind of need someone to hold your hand, you need to have a chat. That is where I think our medical system is underdeveloped, and that is where Fighting Chance comes in.”
